Developer freelance:

Developed and maintained a comprehensive financial calculator application using React.js and Node.js, providing a user-friendly interface for performing financial calculations.

CRESSET CAPITAL

July-2023

I was one of the collaborators involved in the development of the Cresset Capital website. In this project, I contributed to the creation of a high-quality, user-friendly platform for a leading wealth management firm with over $50 billion in assets under management. My role involved working closely with a team to implement technical solutions that ensured seamless navigation and a secure experience for users. Throughout the project, I adhered to Cresset's rigorous standards and helped deliver a website that reflected their brand's professionalism and trustworthiness
